Dear Mr. Bain,

I am delighted to add my congratulations to the American-Scottish Foundation on its 50th anniversary dinner.

The American-Scottish Foundation has made a significant contribution to raising the awareness of both traditional and contemporary Scotland in the United States. The Foundation has helped to make Tartan Week become the most successful promotion of Scotland overseas and its involvement in larger initiatives, such as the Scottish Coalition, has been of great benefit to Scotland.

I have had the pleasure of meeting many members of the American-Scottish Foundation during my time as First Minister, and I am sorry that I cannot be there to celebrate the Foundation's 50th anniversary with you. I would like to pass on my best wishes for an enjoyable evening and for the continued success of the Foundation.

Yours, Aye,

Dear Alan,

In August of this year, I had the privilege of hosting a Reception in the Scottish Parliament to mark the 50th Anniversary of The American-Scottish Foundation. The evening was a success and highlighted the unique bond of friendship that exists between Scotland and America. A friendship that goes back to the Scots pioneers who were at early frontiers, the Scots who were first to declare for American independence and who heavily influenced the Constitution and those Scots who have subsequently played their part in American politics, religion, law, business, science and the arts.

In the words of Woodrow Wilson, himself the grandson of a Scots Presbyterian Minister, "Every line of strength in American history is a fine line coloured with Scottish blood". It is for this reason that such a friendship exists between us and why we eagerly continue today to deepen this relationship – examples being the famous Tartan Day celebrations and the efforts of societies such as the American-Scottish Foundation.

I am therefore delighted to record my appreciation of the Foundation and the work that it has done, and continues to do, for Scottish/American relations. Societies such as your own play a very important role as ambassadors for Scotland and for the celebration of your rich American-Scottish heritage. You also play a significant role in Scotland's future, providing important links between the Scottish diaspora in the United States and the organizations back home.

On behalf of the Scottish Parliament, I would like to extend, once again, our hand of friendship and wish the American-Scottish Foundation many more successful years ahead.

Yours sincerely,

George Reid

Dear Friends:

It is a great pleasure to welcome all those attending the 50th Anniversary Gala Dinner of the American-Scottish Foundation.

Since its inception, the Foundation has been instrumental in strengthening the bonds that unite Scotland and the United States. Its support of numerous activities and events in our City – including the annual Tartan Day Parade – helps New Yorkers appreciate the rich traditions and history of Scottish culture. In addition, the organization does a terrific job of representing our City and its proud Scottish-American community on its regular visits to Scotland.

On behalf of the residents of New York City, I commend the Foundation on its 50 years of service to Americans and Scots around the world. We are proud to join everyone gathered in paying tribute to this tremendous organization and its outstanding contributions to our great City. In addition, we congratulate Euan Baird upon receiving the Wallace Award for his tireless support of American-Scottish relations.

Please accept my best wishes for an enjoyable event and continued success.

Sincerely,

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation, I would like to extend my warmest congratulations to Euan Baird for being honored for his significant role in making the American-Scottish Foundation a highly valued element of our cross-cultural world.

We have enjoyed a wonderful relationship with the Foundation and the support it has provided over the years. From collaborating on the annual John Muir Golf Tournament, to helping restore the Robert Burns statue, to preserving the John Muir nature trail, and presenting a multitude of cultural events across the city, the Foundation has been a devoted advocate of New York City's green spaces.

I am grateful for the role Euan has played in making the Foundation a robust institution and a positive symbol of our nations' mutual esteem. I understand that his energy and enthusiasm for the Foundation have been indispensable and that he has been a staunch supporter of its mission.

For all of Euan's efforts and achievements, he is certainly deserving of this tribute and it is my distinct pleasure to publicly express to him my gratitude for his guidance, collaboration, and service.

Dear Alan:

I am delighted to offer my heartfelt congratulations to you on the 50th Anniversary of the American Scottish Foundation. Over the years the American Scottish Foundation and The New York Public Library have had a close and warm relationship, one that I trust will be continued for years to come.

The Foundation's support of The Library has been very important to us. We appreciate your special support of our "Carnegie" branch libraries, many of which have celebrated or will be celebrating their 100th anniversaries in the near future. We never forget that Andrew Carnegie's generosity was a cornerstone in the development of The New York Public Library.

Our best wishes to Euan Baird on his selection to receive the Wallace Award. I know your dinner will be a great success.

Dear Friends,

On behalf of The American-Scottish Foundation®, its Board, Honorary Sponsors and 50th Anniversary Committee, I am delighted to welcome you to the 50th Anniversary and Wallace Award® Gala Dinner held to celebrate the Foundation's 50th Anniversary and to recognize Mr. Euan Baird with the presentation of its "Wallace Award®".

We honor Mr. Baird, former Chairman and Chief Executive Office of Schlumberger Ltd. for his generosity to Scotland and his unhesitating willingness to support the creation of National Tartan Day, a program that brings Scots and Americans closer together. Mr. Baird was instrumental in enabling the Foundation to develop initial Tartan Day celebrations in New York City and Washington, D.C. Because of his visionary support, this annual celebration by the American-Scottish communities of their culture and heritage, began very modestly in New York City according to the New York Times in 1999, now not only takes place around the U.S.A. but has been adopted widely within Scotland as well.

You will read something of the activities of the Foundation later in this Journal. I hope that you will take it home with you to read at your leisure. I would like to highlight, however, three projects undertaken to demonstrate the Foundation's commitment to matters of interest to Scots and American-Scots alike. These are:

- Professionally commissioned study of the demographics of the American-Scottish community to better understand who we are;
- Gift to the Scottish Parliament from individuals and organizations within the Scottish diaspora of a tapestry to be woven by Dovescot Studios in Edinburgh, Scotland both to reflect hyphenated-Scots real love of their homeland and to educate Scots about Scotland's extraordinary current as well as historic global influence; and
- Sponsorship of a documentary film entitled "The Hollywood Librarian: Librarians in Film and Society" to highlight the importance of librarians and their Libraries to their communities.

In addition to thanking you for your participation, I wish to acknowledge those that supported the event through their advertising in the Journal and support of the Auction. I would also like to thank World-Wide Business Centres for its ongoing support of the Foundation and donation of space to Scotland House™.

Thank you for joining us. I hope you have an enjoyable evening in this incomparable setting.

Wallace Award®

Background

The Wallace Award®, the premium asset of The American-Scottish Foundation®, was first awarded in 1970, and was awarded annually thereafter until 1988.

The Foundation revived the Wallace Award® on April 4TH, 2000. The recipient was then Senate Republican Majority Leader, Trent Lott, a Buchanan. Senator Lott received the Award on the steps of the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. in the presence of Senators from both sides of the aisle. The Award was given in recognition of Senator Lott's sponsorship of Senate Resolution 155. Resolutions adopted unanimously by The Senate in 1997 and The House of Representatives in 2005, established April 6, in perpetuity, as National Tartan Day.

On April 5TH, 2001, the Foundation presented the Award to Sir Sean Connery, again on the steps of the Capitol Building, in the presence of Vice President Dick Cheney, and Senators from both sides of the aisle. The Award was given in recognition of Sir Sean's longstanding interest in and devotion to Scotland.

The proposed 2002 Award ceremony, again scheduled for Washington, D.C., was cancelled due to the death of The Queen Mother. There was no Award in 2003.

On April 6TH, 2004, the Foundation presented the Award to individuals representing three generations of the Forbes' family. In recognition of the family's devotion to Scotland and the advancement of its interests. Bertie Charles (B.C.) Forbes' Award, presented "in memoriam", was accepted by his son, Wallace F. Forbes; Malcolm S. Forbes' Award, also presented "in memoriam", was accepted by Moira Forbes, daughter of Steve Forbes; and the Award to each of Steve Forbes, Timothy C. Forbes, Christopher Forbes, Robert L. Forbes and Moira Forbes Mumma was accepted by Christopher Forbes.

On April 5th, 2005, the Foundation presented the Award to Donald and Eleanor Taffner. The Award was given in recognition of the Taffners' long-standing support of the Arts and, in particular, The Glasgow School of Art. The Taffners were the first Award recipients to be selected who had no ancestral connection to Scotland.

Honorees

The Wallace Award® was originally conceived as a singular opportunity to recognize the extraordinary diversity of contribution that Scots have made to the world; and, in particular, to recognize one or more living citizens or residents of the United States of Scottish descent for their individual contributions to the well being of this country.

The Foundation has now expanded the Award's reach to include, in addition to Americans, Canadians and Scots, deceased as well as living, who have made an important contribution to American-Scottish relationships.

Wallace Award® recipients are selected by the Board of Directors of The American-Scottish Foundation® from nominations submitted by interested groups.

Purposes

To recognize living citizens or residents of the United States or Canada of Scottish descent for outstanding achievement or significant contribution in their field of endeavor.

To recognize "in memoriam" citizens or residents of the United States or Canada of Scottish descent for outstanding achievement or significant contribution in their field of endeavor.

To recognize living Americans or Scots for their contribution to American-Scottish relationships.

Event

The Award event, since its revival in 2000, has been held on or about National Tartan Day (April 6TH). The event has a notable Scottish theme with the recipient(s) making a short acceptance speech. (The recipient's attendance is expected). The event is held in a prestigious location in the presence of local dignitaries, and other VIP guests, members of national societies, Scottish commercial and philanthropic organizations, the sponsors, invited guests, Foundation members and their guests. A media presence is also actively solicited.

Prior to 2000, the event took place in New York City. In 2000 and 2001, the Award ceremony took place in Washington, D.C. on the steps of the Capitol Building, as part of the National Tartan Day ceremonies in that city. For security reasons this location is no longer available. As in 2006, the Award ceremony in 2004 and 2005 took place in New York City.

The Foundation is also considering hosting the event in other U.S. cities in the future where there is a strong local organization with whom to co-sponsor the event. The Foundation is a national organization with a national membership.

Date

Prior to the introduction of Tartan Day, the event was held in the Fall. Since its revival it has been held in conjunction with National Tartan Day ceremonies that take place on or about April 6TH.

Proceeds

The event is not traditionally designed to fundraise for the Foundation. The sole purposes of the event are to raise the profile of the American-Scottish community in the U.S. and to recognize the outstanding achievement and contribution of individuals of Scottish descent and those who have significantly benefitted Scotland. A fundraising component consistent with the dignity of the Award has been added in this Anniversary year. Proceeds will go to benefit Scottish interest charities based in both the U.S. and Scotland as well as to meet the ongoing financial needs of the Foundation, particularly to fund the Anniversary projects referred to in this Journal.

Description of Foundation 50TH Anniversary Program

Burns Night

The evening, held at a prestigious private New York City club on Friday, January 27, 2006, introduced participants to the music, wisdom and fun of Robert Burns. Traditional elements included the “Piping in” of the guests and the haggis, the “address to the haggis,” “loyal toasts”, a rousing rendition of Burns’ songs, and a closing selection of reels. The evening entertainment featured Caledon, three highly acclaimed Scottish tenors under the direction of Michael Barnett. Caledon has appeared in a number of prestigious locations including the Sydney Opera House, the Scottish Parliament Building and the U.N.

British Memorial Garden

The British Memorial Garden Trust, Inc., a 501 (c) (3) organization under the Patronage of HRH Prince Charles and overseen by the British Consulate-General and the St. George’s Society of New York, in conjunction with the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation, is transforming a plot of land in Hanover Square, New York City, into the British Memorial Garden Trust. The Garden, a gift from the British community to the people of New York, will serve as a living memorial to those British and Commonwealth nationals who lost their lives in the Two World Wars and in the attack on the World Trade Center.

The Foundation sourced different Scottish stone (Caithness and Moray) for the Garden’s pathways and borders. An official ceremonial laying of two Caithness Corner Stones, “bricks”, for the Garden’s paths took place at The British Memorial Garden on April 6, 2005, Tartan Day. The ceremony was followed by a VIP reception, co-hosted by the Foundation and the British Memorial Garden Trust.

Another “Scotland in the Garden” event, as it is known, celebrating the Garden took place this year, again on April 6, Tartan Day, featuring a free concert of Scottish music by The Strathclyde Fire & Rescue Pipe Band, The Inverclyde Juvenile Pipe Band, and Scocha at Old Slip Park.

Tartan Day Parade

Under the sponsorship of the National Tartan Day New York Committee, Inc., of which the Foundation is the founding member, thousands celebrated the richness of Scottish music and culture as the Tartan Day Parade, now in its seventh year, marched up Sixth Avenue from 44TH Street to 59TH Street on April 8TH. Spectators of all ages, waving flags and hometown banners, lined up along the fifteen-block Sixth Avenue route to watch thousands of traditionally clad Pipe Bands and other musicians from Scotland, the United States and around the world, all dressed in their Tartan Day – best, lead the Parade of dignitaries. Sponsors and their guests had a bird’s eye view from atop of one of the Tartan clad double decker buses.

Post Parade Foundation Member and Guest Reception

An intimate Reception for ASF members and their guests, for visiting and local dignitaries, and sponsors and their guests was held immediately following the conclusion of the Parade at “Scotland House”™, the home of the Foundation.

John Muir Golf Tournament

The John Muir Golf Tournament celebrated its 10TH Anniversary this year. The Tournament was created by the Foundation at the request of the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation to honor John Muir, the Scots born environmentalist. The Tournament, hosted by the Foundation, and supported by New York City Department of Parks & Recreation, Friends of Van Cortlandt Park, and American Golf, is played on The Van Cortlandt Golf Course, the oldest public course in the country.

Description of Foundation 50th Anniversary Projects

Diaspora Gift

A national and international initiative to present a tapestry to the Scottish Parliament on behalf of organizations representing the Scottish Diaspora. The tapestry, to be designed by a well respect Scottish artist of international stature and hung in a publicly accessible space in the new Parliament Building, will be woven by the internationally acclaimed Dovecot Studios in Edinburgh. The principal of such a gift has been accepted by the Parliament. A particularly positive outcome will be the illustrative, interpretive and educational material associated with the tapestry project, developed for a number of different audiences, helping to further articulate the message of Scotland's contribution to the world and reinforcing a sense of pride in succeeding generations of Scots.

Demographic Study

A study, commissioned by the Foundation on behalf of organizations both within the American-Scottish community and in Scotland, of the demographics of the American-Scottish community, is to be conducted by Campbell Rinker, a leading producer of quality market research for the non-profit industry. Among the study's objectives are: To investigate findings set forth in "The Millionaire Next Door," which state: "The Scottish ancestry group make up only 1.7 percent of all households, but it accounts for 9.3 percent of the millionaire households in America."

"Hollywood Librarian, Librarians in Film and Society" Documentary

As part of its recognition of Andrew Carnegie's role in the building of libraries globally, the Foundation is supporting, the development of a documentary film entitled the "Hollywood Librarian, Librarians in Film and Society". The film, as its title suggests, focuses on the critically important role of librarians in the community.

The Foundation's involvement was motivated by its desire to emphasize Scotland's historic and continuing commitment to education; most profoundly epitomized by Andrew Carnegie's commitment to Libraries and to let Americans to know that Andrew Carnegie was a Scot.

At the Foundation's request, Ms. Seidl, the filmmaker, agreed to incorporate a segment about Andrew Carnegie's background and commitment to libraries in her documentary.

The Foundation, in turn, agreed to assist Ms. Seidl develop funding for both the overall project and the proposed Carnegie segment.

ASF's introduction of Ms. Seidl to Dr. Vartan Gregorian, President of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, secured a $75,000 grant for the project.

Dear Alan:

I am so sorry I will be unable to attend The American-Scottish Foundation's 50th Anniversary & Wallace Award® Gala Dinner on Monday, October 23rd.

As a former Wallace Award® recipient, I am most proud of both that honor and my Scottish bloodline. Therefore, it goes without saying, that it is with great regret that I must convey to you, and all those assembled for this very special occasion, that professional film commitments prevent me from participating in the festivities; however, I certainly do look forward to future gatherings.

I would like to extend my most sincere congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Euan Baird on being presented The American-Scottish Foundation's 2006 Wallace Award®.

I congratulate The American-Scottish Foundation on achieving the milestone of one-half century of dedicated service to the promotion of "all things Scottish," and wish the Foundation and its members all the very best for a great many more years of noteworthy achievement and success.

As ever, yours, Aye,

Cliff Robertson

Group Captain, The Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, O.B.E., D.F.C. M.P.
Founder, The American-Scottish Foundation

"... ALWAYS IN MY HEART."

Who can better describe Scotland and strong memories of the native Scottish homeland than Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton himself, the founder of The American-Scottish Foundation and originator of the great goal of Scotland House. These were his prophetic words written immediately before he was killed in a plane crash in Africa in 1964:

"Scotland will always mean home to me, no matter where I am. The eternal spiritual ownership of Scotland's wild freedom, her incredible beauty and the enveloping warmth of the land and of its people — possessions that are free to all who care — are of a value greater than gold . . .

"Scotland means different things to different people. To some, it is only a rare place for a holiday; to others it is an unsuccessful battlefield in the economic struggle for life from which they may have turned with bitterness to other lands. But to most, as certainly to me, Scotland bears a compelling mystique, hard to explain . . .

"In the hearts of those whom Scotland nurtured, wherever they may be down through the generations, there exists a wistful longing, a sense of incompleteness, as of a task unfinished, something of an atavistic return to primaeval roots from the mists of time, beyond the memory of man . . .

"There is a spiritual quality in the love that all men bear for the land of their ancestors, but this is particularly true of Scots and Scotland. The very hills have a brooding timelessness beyond human comprehension . . .

"I have seen and lived in many other lands, places of great beauty, but those things that seem to me to be uniquely Scottish are beyond the reach of human action. I carry always in my heart memories of a magical light that seems to glow from the whole land in early morning making the dew to shine like pearls. There are unforgettable scents — of warm peat and heather, and in winter, the smell of snow mixed with pine. The cries of the Scottish birds are always in my ears — of the "whaups" and the "pee wees," and the "go-back" of the grouse, high up on the moor; the screech of seagulls amid the beauty of the West Coast with its white sand, black rock and crystal water and the sight of the gannet plummeting 200 feet into the sea after herring. The stark mountains, the expanse of the moor, the grandeur and the immutability of the land in all its seasons is indelibly written on my soul . . .

"It is the genius of the Scottish people to combine diverse qualities to an extraordinary degree; firmness of resolve, mixed with a profound understanding of human fallibility; tact and bluntness; grit and imagination; heroism; great physical courage and an affinity for ideological struggle and the battlefield. From the Celtic strain comes passion, romance, sensitivity and an acute appreciation of beauty and music . . .

"Scots are a people not easily led and almost impossible to drive. They possess a profound concept of human dignity, and the inviolability of the rights of personal opinion. They are not prone to join together as one people for any cause; a weakness which has been one of their downfalls throughout history and in many of the great issues of the past, not least in wars, both at home and abroad, Scot has been found violently opposing Scot.

"As all men are formed to a greater or lesser extent by their early environment, the love of freedom, which is my greatest belief, was most strongly moulded within me by the land of Scotland itself. Moor, wild forest, mountain, loch and river symbolize the essence of Freedom to me — as to so many of my countrymen — not as a gift alone, but as a stern duty."

Group Captain, The Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, O.B.E., D.F.C.
Founder, The American-Scottish Foundation

Lady Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, C.B.E.

FOUNDER AND PRESIDENT EMERITUS
The American-Scottish Foundation, Inc.

Lady Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton was born Natalie Scarritt Wales in Cohasset, Massachusetts in 1909. She grew up in Boston and New York City. From her earliest years, she was a generous, outgoing and enthusiastic person of drive and great optimism.

Her career began in 1939 when she learned of the devastation and isolation of Great Britain in the early years of World War II. She took the train to Washington, D.C. to ask the British Ambassador, Lord Lothian, what Britain needed that ordinary Americans could supply.

Lord Lothian inquired, and the answer came back: knitted Balaclava helmets for the merchant navy, who were suffering from exposure and freezing temperatures shepherding convoys in the North Atlantic. These head coverings needed to be of a uniform, almost-black navy blue wool of a certain weight, and knitting instructions would be supplied. Undaunted (a quality that served her for the rest of her life), Natalie contacted wollen mills—principally Burlington Mills—and asked them to supply several tons, not “at cost” because, as she cheerfully noted, “I have no money”, but for free.

The wool was supplied, the knitting began and Natalie organized, Bundles for Britain, which eventually had over two and one-half million men and women as members, knitting helmets, sweaters, gloves; rolling bandages and packing medicines; creating clothing drives, blood drives and canned food drives across the country. She asked Buckingham Palace for something she could auction off in a nationwide raffle to raise money. Queen Elizabeth (later the Queen Mother, sent a red, white and blue (rubies, diamonds and sapphires) cigarette case and a piece of shrapnel from the bomb that hit Buckingham Palace. Natalie maintained a cordial relationship with the Queen, who years later as Queen Mother became the Royal Patron of The American Scottish Foundation. Later, Natalie joined the Staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES as assistant to the Publisher.

In 1946, Natalie was made an honorary Commander of the British Empire for her services in World War II. She was the first non-British woman to be so honored.

1947, faced with the growing Soviet threat in Europe, Natalie and her husband, Edward Bragg Paine, created Common Cause, Inc, the first “American citizens organization to combat communism”. She turned her dynamism and organizational skills once again to a cause she believed in, raising funds, holding seminars shipping food during the Berlin airlift and using American legal interventions to shelter refugees—sometimes in her own home. Her husband died suddenly in 1951.

In that same year, as a young American widow she went to England (to make a speech about Communism in the House of Commons. She met Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, the Member of Parliament for Inverness-shire and an ardent anti communist. She later married him, and they lived in Scotland and England for several years. -Returning to the United States, Lord and Lady Malcolm together created The American-Scottish Foundation, Inc. in 1956, to strengthen the historic ties between Scotland and the United States in all areas--educational, cultural, social, genealogical, philanthropic, scientific and economic.

Articulate, enthusiastic and encouraging, Lady Malcolm worked with Lord Malcolm to further the goals of the Foundation until he was tragically killed with his 21-year-old son, Niall, in an airplane crash in Cameroon, West Africa in 1964.

Devastated by her loss, Lady Malcolm found some strength in continuing Lord Malcolm’s dreams for the Foundation. In the early 1970s she organized “Scotland Week” in New York City. She obtained permission from the Fifth Avenue Association to have crossed American and Scottish flags on every other lamppost. She asked the famous Fifth Avenue shops between 60th and 34th Streets to give their front windows (and inside) a Scottish motif. There was a 2-day Economic Meeting with Scottish and American economists and professors. There were Scottish concerts, pipe bands, the Scottish Symphony, an art exhibit and many parties during the gala week.

Lady Malcolm also inaugurated The Scottish Ball, one of the most beautiful, memorable and “fun” events of the social year. It was held, at the Hotel Plaza, and was eagerly anticipated each year. She also created The Wallace Award, the single most prestigious event in the Scottish-American calendar celebrating outstanding achievement primarily of American – Scots.

Lady Malcolm was particularly enthusiastic about creating Scotland House, a special dream of Lord Malcolm’s, to be a central gathering place for American Scots, visiting Scots, students, people seeking their Scottish roots--a place for all. The first Scotland House was opened in the mid-70s at 124 East 39th Street by New York City Mayor Abraham Beame, and was an instant success. Lectures, movies, seminars, ceilidhs, dances and teas were held in a comfortable atmosphere with a large Scottish-American library, and Scottish products such as sweaters, tweeds, jewelry and china were for sale. A later Scotland House was on Fifth Avenue in the 80s and of course the present Scotland House at 575 Madison Avenue.

Lady Malcolm retired from the Foundation in 1989. She had two daughters, six grandchildren and 11 grandchildren and is currently enjoying her retirement in Stillwater, New Jersey.

Dear Alan,

On behalf of the Board of Governors and Members of the Illinois Saint Andrew Society, I am delighted to extend sincere greetings and hearty congratulations to you and everyone at the American-Scottish Foundation as you celebrate 50 years of outstanding service to the American-Scottish Community.

The Illinois Saint Andrew Society and the American-Scottish Foundation have a great deal in common. The American Scottish-Foundation builds social and commercial bonds between the people of Scotland and the United States. The Illinois Saint Andrew Society nourishes the Scottish identity through service, fellowship and the celebration of Scottish culture. As friends, our organizations share a steadfast belief in the fundamental Scottish values of integrity, civic responsibility and benevolence. Together, as kindred partners, we uphold these important values. It is upon these values that the Scots helped to build the American way of life.

I also extend the Illinois Saint Andrew Society's warm congratulations to Mr. Euan Baird on the occasion of his being recognized and honored for his impressive professional and philanthropic accomplishments and for his important contributions to the continuing Scottish-American friendship. Mr Baird is a worthy recipient of the American-Scottish Foundation's prestigious Wallace Award.

Happy Anniversary.
